"Average Individuals"----

Partners in Wealth

WHEN you look up at towering skyscrapers-when you see names of glant corporations-when you scan impressive figures in a monthly bank statement-it's easy to picture the country's wealth as beforging to the few,

But his just as easy to get a far different and more accurate pleture. For example: When you pick up a telephone, when you listen to a radio, when you ride in an automobile or train, when you step into a bank-remember that these things represent corporate wealth and that 11 million people own 33 billions of corporate wealth, as shown by records on the Stock Exchange alone.

Add to this five other classifications of wealth-farms, pri and to this the duty that the major of the position and the ligure suchs to 170 billions, the major portion of an estimated national worth of 240 to 250 billions. In a nation of 120 millions, pure than 118 million records of property ownership are listed under these six classifications, which do not include wealth owned by the general public in the form of schools, parks, institutions, efc.

Here is convincing evidence of the often forgotten fact that the great wealth of America is the combined wealth of its acculled "average individuals."

How Are Tricks?

The court packing right in the senste promises to be the fastest, most furious demonstration of rule quoting the country has seen in a generation.

The votes are evenly divided. The adminintration's job is to try to line up enough votes to squeeze through, regardless of the fact that public opinion is against such coercion. The court packers have tricks up

They will thrust and jab mignilly with such lethal weapons as technical recesses and rules of debate. They will apout obfections like a machine gun spouts bullets. Already they have defied their opponents to start a fillbuster. "Walt till you see what we do to you," they threaten

What this means is that the administration's strategists are ready to settle a momentous question of public policy by the tweedle-dee, tweedle-dum methods of lawyer-politicians. They have been losing tha debate over the proposal, but they don't intend to lose the battle over rules. If they can find enough greace to allp court packing down the country's unwilling threat,

This week Nen Wheeler told President Recorvelt the kindest thing he could do for the President as a friend would be to keep him from bemmering the senate into aubmission on the court proposal. Some one now abould tell senators preparing to out-fox their opponents that popular confidence in the integrity of congressions at ready is flat on its back from an overdose of trickery in the court fight. It's time for them to begin to think about saving their own skins. Mr Ronevell's face-eaving ien't worth the price it's going to cost.

Never Anything Dull.

To many Americans Tammany Hall is just about the most interesting thing there ia in politica.

Over independence day, three things bappened there.

Sen. Wagner, being coaxed to run for mayor of New York City to defeat his good friend Florella LaGuardia, who is a hated Republican, called Tanimany the "cradic of modern liberalism in the United

President Roosevelt, who got his start in politice fighting the Hall and has been fighting it and playing ball with it alternately ever since, read a warm letter of greeting. There were cheers.

There were cheers, also, for Son. Copeland, who is at odds with Mr. Roosevelt and who might be coaxed to run for mayor as Tammany candidate himself-and they were good loud ones. All this happened despite the fact Mr. Roosevelt says Scn. Copeland mustn't be considered because he wouldn't put up as good a fight against LaGuardia as Wagner would, and La-Guardia must be beaten, although he is a favorite at the White House and a red hot

Fat Days Are Over.

There are only a few familiar names in the second Vanderbill cup race this week. The rest were foreign. Bernd Rosemeyer and Ernst Delius of Germany finished first and fourth. Richard Scamen of England finehed second in a German car, Farina of Italy finished fifth. The first American driver to finish was Rex Mans in third place, and he drove a foreign car.

The first American car to finish was in seventh place. Its mate in the race was the only other American car among the first 12 to finish. Does this mean that Americans have been taking too much for granted about their automobiles and that mass production and maximum performance don't go together after all?

Not exactly. Hidden in some of the stories about the Vanderbilt race was a short paragraph saving that after the race was over certain Americans met unofficially to discuss plans for next year's race. They were determined to do better. What room for improvement is there?

They must finance special racing cars, like those driven by the foreigners this year. They must do for American drivers what governments do for the European drivers-give them the finest equipment money and influence can obtain. They must instruct drivers in the art of road racing, which has little in common with track racing. Ren Mayn stayed in the rape to finish third targely because he had

that the substitute is much worse than the original. Thus, for example, the original measure would have required the President to as point an additional number of flugre when certain individuals in the present membership reached a certain are. The appointments were to be made at a specific limit. Under the new bill, however, the President is given posen to make or withhold appointments at his own pleasure. Feeling in the senate into high The attempt on the part of the administration to shut off debate and to present the people from asking, through their representatives, questions from the defectors of the measure is one of the measure as one of the measure is one of the measure of repression that he court forth in recent years. Filliustration to retain the second of the measure of the second of the secon examples of repression that has come forth in recent years. Filliustering merely to delay is one thing. Adequate debate in order to place the facts and arguments before the American people is another. The administration made a blunder when it ordered a gag even before the real debate got under way. Is the administration afraid to let questions be asked that cannot be addeduced to let questions be asked that cannot be addeduced to the attraction which is most unfortunate is that which centers around the Democratic leader, tienator Robinson of the Demorratic leader, tienator Robinson of Arkaness. He has been selected to fill the vacancy on the surreme court caused by the relitement of Justice Van Devanter. Mr. Robinson has many friends. He is probably as popular as any member of the senate and his popularity extende throughout both parties. But he may forfelt the regard of many who admire him should he handle the administration's fight for the new court bill on the floor of the senate. By all the considerations of governmental practice where judges are concerned. Mr. Robinson ought not to justifipate in the debate as a manager of a cause. The management of the President's oills seight, for debate as a manager of a cause. The management of the Preeldent's oils eught, for this single situation at least, to be handed over to an acting leader.

Deen't Take Well

Certainly, the American people will not look kindly toward the elevation to the supreme court of the United States of a man who personally managers a political light to help the President "peck" the supreme court and then gets a nemination to the bench when the right is over. Mr. Roblemon has independence, which will make him a fall justice, but he may go on the bench with the biggree, handicap any justice ever had if he makes himself a partlean fur in the court tight and if he allows himself to he the apokesman of an unfair himself to he the apokeaman of an unfall himself to be the apokeaman of an unfair attempt to limit debate.

Before Justice Van Devanter retired, the attitution was different. But now, since it is generally conceded that for fitchieson is to be appointed to fill a vacancy, he has in effect been disqualified from aironeoring legislation in an active sense which affects the very tribunal on which he is shortly logif.

the very tribunal on which he le shortly to rft.

The men who wrote the Coostitution thought of the elme kind of contingency when they wrote a provision that a member of congress should not be eligible to any office created while he was a member of the legislative body. Technically, Mr. Robinson is to be awarded only the vaccacy which was caused by Mr. Van Devantera settrement, but actually he is to be appointed to a court the nature of which will be considerably affected by the legislation which Mr. Robinson, as a member of congress, will not only have voted on, but which he will have jainined through by a series of managueers designed to cut off proper debate.

Many people who want Senator Robinson to get that appointment to the bench because they like birn and think bis broad experience with legislation as a whole would be invaluable will begin to wonder whether the Arkanean senator is so close to whether the Arkaneas senator is so close to the slittation as to overlook the damage he is doing to his own record in public life as well as to the inetitutions of his country. If the administration persists in its effort to curtail debate, such feeling on Capitol IIII will no doubt arise as to apili the senate into irreconclibile factions. All this is annually beauting. ate into irreconclibble factions. All this is appraing because the administration doesn't fear that a practical coalition of opponents of the court plan will ever be mobilized at the polls in the 1935 elections. It is on this point that there may be a surprise. For a non-partisen movement to concentrate on adding opponents of the court plan and defeating the men who vote for it be unquestioably going to be under way by the time the next elections are held.

The significant things are that a start has been made, in surveys of routes, that service already has been ratablished over routes of a similar nature and that the first experimental flights passed off exfely—so uneventfully, in fact, that no one even will remember the names of the men who sold to the planes, one from Eucland to
